Assign a topic related to your course for a focused freewrite in class. To help generate ideas, have your students write nonstop for 5-10 minutes (or less depending on the subject), recording all thoughts connected to the topic. Stimulating questions, connections, or misinformation that students may have about the topic will emerge, so follow up with small or large group discussion.